

While many calendar apps exist, they often lack a blend of engagement, functionality, and enjoyment. Most focus on basic scheduling but fail to create an experience that draws users in, making daily planning feel like a chore rather than a pleasure. There's a need for a calendar that not only organizes but also delights.